

deformation of the plastic molding, wherein at least one of the plurality of imperfect transfer portions is formed so as to have a contour disposed apart from an edge of the transfer surface.